The Tribune Almanac for 1875 is received. It well maintains its fine reputation in the days when the late Mr. Greeley had a hand in its preparation. It is a very valuable annual—exceedingly convenient for reference concerning statistics and politics.

Baltimore is to have an indignation mass meeting this evening at Masonic Temple, to give expression to the feelings of the people of that city as to the outrages enacted by the Administration in Louisiana. The call received the signatures of the most prominent men of that city.

The Washington Republican can't see any necessity in the indignation meetings that are being held throughout the country. It contends the President can do no harm, and that all these demonstrations are worse than useless. We are not surprised at the Republican—it must stand to the rack, fodder or no fodder.

KING KALAKAUA is visiting Niagara Falls. It is to be hoped, for the sake of his little Kingdom, that he will not play Sam Patch this cold weather, notwithstanding he can jump down a thousand feet in his own country. We wonder if he will try the experiment, just to show that he has not been guilty of a muchaucau?

The Associated Press failed to send us a word concerning the indignation meeting had in New York Monday night, condemnatory of the proceedings of the President in Louisiana, which is said to have been an immense affair, but in our news columns this morning will be found full accounts gleaned from our exchanges.

THE PRESS.

It speaks volumes in praise of the American press, that so large a majority of the papers of the country, without regard to party preferences, or affiliations, have been swift to denounce the conduct of the Administration towards the people of Louisiana. There are exceptions, of course, some so blind by party zeal as to be unable to see an error in its most distinguished representative, while others defend because they know that from the public treasury comes their means of support, and in whose hands now are the keys to that treasury. Super-serviceable lackeys, without character or principle, they are ready in any event to cry "The King can do no wrong. Long live the King." Their fealty has no great value, since it is purchasable material, and at the service, always, of the highest bidder. Just now Grant happens to be paymaster, and they shout and swear for Grant. Let the scene change, and they would be found the loudest in their professions of loyalty to whomsoever might succeed him.

But we repeat we are intensely gratified by the tone of the press of both sections of the country. Its utterances have been bold, manly, timely and patriotic; and has largely contributed to the present condition of the public mind on the subject. Sinning Congressmen may profess to despise its lashings and disregard its warnings, but despite their opposition, it is a power in the land; and in their hearts they bleed beneath its castigations.

The signal service done to truth and justice in this exigency, will do much to restore the confidence of the people in the Press, which has been somewhat impaired by the slavish and licentious conduct of some few of its representatives. It is a glorious opportunity to show the world its power and value, and has been right gloriously redeemed. The liberties of the people are safe from destruction so long as the sentinels in the watchtower give faithful warning of the coming of their enemies. The country rejoices in the possession of an outspoken, independent and unpurchasable Press. May it long have cause to do so.

THE NEW ORLEANS PLEASURE.

A characteristic trick of the Kilt-loos men in that city to invite a disturbance for political effect. On Tuesday, January 5, while Colonels Bond and Wood were engaged in conversation with other gentlemen at the corner of St. Louis and Royal streets, a large crowd being assembled on the other side of the street near the State House, a negro was seen coming toward them carrying upon a pole a board which bore the inscription, "Remember September 14." Messrs. Bond and Wood at once seized and destroyed the inendiary placard, and shortly afterward an appeal was issued by Gov.

McKenry, Speaker Witz and Mr. J.

N. Oakes, warning citizens that the Kellogg party had employed men to foment a disturbance, and appealing to them not to be misled into any violations of the public peace.

They also cautioned their political friends against assembling around the State house, an admonition which was promptly heeded. No means have been left untried to goad the people of New Orleans into an outbreak.

A GOOD SHOWING.

We present below an abstract of the report of the Augusta (Ga.)

Cotton Factory, made to the semi-annual meeting of the directors held on the 31st of December. These figures demonstrate, beyond cavil, the superior advantages of the South as a manufacturing community.

During the year 1874 many of the largest manufacturing establishments of the Middle and New England States were closed, because their owners could make no profit on the goods manufactured; many others, indeed almost without exception, were worked upon halftime schedules; and in no instance have the dividends received been encouraging.

The Georgia mills, however, have done better. There has been no stoppage of work and markets have been readily found for all the goods they had the capacity to turn out.

The operatives have known no suffering from want or privation, and the stock has yielded a dividend of 12 per centum for the year.

North Carolina has some of the finest water power on the continent, that are suffered to lie unused to her injury and discredit. When will our people come to understand the unrivaled advantages they enjoy and put them to some profitable and beneficial use?

The following is the abstract submitted above:

"The semi-annual meeting of the Augusta Cotton Factory was held in Augusta, Ga., on the 31st ult. From the report of the President it appears that the company, since the war, has paid in dividends $1,122,000, and has expended $500,000 for new machinery. There are now 23,000 spindles and 700 looms in operation. The property of the company is worth $1,500,000, which is $500,000 more than the capital stock. The board of directors declared the usual dividend of three per cent for the quarter ending December 31, 1874.

These figures indicate a healthy condition of affairs in our sister State, and we rejoice thereat. We do so with that the prosperity of Georgia might act as an incentive to our own people, and induce them to adopt the means that have brought her improvement.

A suggestion in a Washington paper that a car should be carried on the Potomac Railroad, is sensible. A SHERIDAN'S BULLETINS.

Copy the following pretty sentences from the Boston Daily Advertiser:

"One of the most able and influential of the Republican papers in the North."

"His [Sheridan's] bulletins have been given of the general state of affairs in Louisiana. The names of many of the citizens and residents in New Orleans who have protested against his reckless condemnation of them are well known in Boston.

Some of them have been long connected with our leading business houses, and would make no statement, in a matter so serious as this, which they did not know to be true.

The surprising moderation of the whole community during the week under circumstances calculated to try the patience of much less excitable people, also gives the lie to our bold cavalry rider."

A gentleman from Fincastle, Va., states that quite an excitement was created at that place recently, by an impetuous lover essaying to take upon him the young lady, and revenge for having been deserted by his former sweetheart. The parties belong to the good society of the place, and the affair set the town all agog. It seems that the young man had been engaged to the young lady for some time, but owing to the persistent opposition of her parents, and perhaps other causes, the engagement was recently broken off. He is said to have been so enraged at the refusal of the girl to receive him, that he went out with a party of his friends on Saturday afternoon, the young lady, accompanied by her sisters, was at home in which the rejected suitor was seen. Seeing them, he went out and opened fire on her with a Smith and Wesson's pistol, six shots of which were discharged, without, however, and fortunately, any of the balls taking effect. The couple were some little distance off, and were not aware that they were being fired at. He is said to have acknowledged the shooting afterward and that others witnessed it.

The Lexington (Ky.) Gazette says:

"An express package came to a young lady in this city not long ago from A. T. Stewart's and attached to it was a tag upon which the letters 'C. O. D.'

were plainly written. The package was sent to the room and great was the anxiety to examine its contents.

But the servant said the express man was waiting for the bill, and she was obliged to wait. The bill, it was said, was not a little perplexing under the circumstances. At last the solution struck her and she translated the calligraphic letters thus: 'C. for Call, O. for O. D. for O. D. mail on and so told the servant, and the bill was promptly paid.

There are few sights more inspiring than the spectacle of a small boy shooting along an alleyway with about four feet of bull-dog fastened to his trousers and floating in the breeze behind him.

THE CHEMISTRY OF THE STOMACH.—As in the more delicate processes of the laboratory, it is essential that the reagents employed to produce chemical changes in the food should be perfectly pure. When the stomach is diseased, it is imperatively necessary that the fluids of the stomach, which act chemically upon
